Third Party Liability. Every person on Glendining & Co.'s premises at any time shall be deemed to be there at his or her risk. He or she shall have no claim against Glendining & Co. in respect of any accident which may occur or injury, damage or loss howsoever caused, save insofar as the injury, damage or loss shall be caused by the direct negligence of Glendining & Co. employees.

GENERAL CONDITIONS OF SALE

1. Definitions. In these Conditions Glendining & Co., who act only as auctioneers and agents for the vendor, are called "the Auctioneers", and the representative of Glendining & Co. conducting the auction is called "The Auctioneer".
2. General. Whilst Glendining & Co. make every effort to ensure the accuracy of their catalogue and the description of any lot:
 - (a) Each lot as set out in the catalogue or as divided or combined with any other lot or lots is sold by the vendor with all faults, imperfections and errors of descriptions.
 - (b) Glendining & Co. do not accept responsibility for the authenticity, attribution, genuineness, origin, authorship, date, age, period, condition or quality of any lot, unless they have been instructed in writing by the vendor so to certify, and in such case the Auctioneers do so as agents of the vendor and are not themselves responsible for such claims.
 - (c) All statements, whether printed in the catalogue or made orally, as to any of the matters set out in (b) above are statements of opinion only and are not to be taken as being or implying any warranties or representations of fact by Glendining & Co., unless they have been instructed in writing by the vendor so to certify, and in such case the Auctioneers do so as agents of the vendor and are not themselves responsible for such claims.
 - (d) Any claim under any Statute must be received in writing by the Auctioneer within ten days of the day of the sale.
3. The Auction.
 - (a) The Auctioneer has absolute discretion to divide any lot, to combine any two or more lots or to withdraw any lot or lots from the sale, to refuse bids, regulate bidding or cancel the sale without in any case giving any reason or without previous notice. He may bid on behalf of the vendor for all goods which are being offered subject to reserve or at the Auctioneer's discretion.
 - (b) The highest bidder shall be the buyer except in the case of a dispute. If during the auction the Auctioneer considers that a dispute has arisen, he has absolute discretion to settle it or to re-offer the lot. The Auctioneer may at his sole discretion determine the advance of bidding or refuse a bid.
 - (c) Each lot is put up for sale subject to any reserve price placed by the vendor. Where there is no reserve price (but not otherwise) the seller has the right to bid either personally or by any one person (who may be the Auctioneer).
 - (d) All conditions, notices, descriptions, statements and other matters in the catalogue and elsewhere concerning any lot are subject to any statements modifying or affecting the same made by the Auctioneer from the rostrum prior to any bid being accepted for the lot.
4. Rescission. Notwithstanding any other terms of these Conditions, if within fourteen days after the sale Glendining & Co. have received from the buyer of any lot notice in writing that in his view the lot is a deliberate forgery and within twenty-one days after such notification the buyer returns the same to Glendining & Co. in the same condition as at the time of sale and by producing evidence, the burden of proof to be upon the buyer, satisfies Glendining & Co. that considered in the light of the entry in the catalogue the lot is a deliberate forgery, then the sale of the lot will be rescinded and the purchase price of the same refunded. Both the buyer and the vendor agree to be bound by the decision of Glendining & Co.

5. Default. Glendining & Co. disclaim responsibility for default by either the buyer or the vendor because they act as agents for the vendor only and therefore do not pay out to the vendor until payment is received from the buyer. Instructions given by telephone are accepted at the sender's risk and must be confirmed in writing forthwith.
6. In the event of a sale by private treaty both the vendor and the buyer agree to be bound by the General and any Special Conditions of Sale.

VENDORS CONDITIONS

7. Instructions. As Glendining & Co. are auctioneers, all goods delivered to Glendining & Co.'s premises will be deemed to be delivered for sale by auction unless otherwise previously stated in writing and will be catalogued and sold at Glendining & Co.'s discretion and accepted by Glendining & Co. subject to all the Sale Conditions. By delivering the goods to Glendining & Co. for inclusion in their auction sales each vendor acknowledges that he or she has accepted and agreed to be bound by all these Conditions.
8. Collections. Glendining & Co. do not themselves usually undertake the collection of goods but will, if required in writing, instruct a contractor on the vendor's behalf in their capacity as agents. Glendining & Co. disclaim all responsibility for loss or damage to goods or for unauthorised removal of goods and for damage to premises caused by the contractor who should be insured for such risks. Unless instructions are received to the contrary the charge for these services will be deducted from the proceeds of sale.
9. Loss or Damage. Glendining & Co. disclaim all responsibility for loss or damage to goods or for unauthorised removal of goods unless caused by the direct negligence of their employees.
10. Storage. Glendining & Co. reserve the right to store or arrange for the storage of goods delivered to them for sale either on their own premises or elsewhere at their sole discretion. They exempt themselves from any liability for loss or damage to goods delivered to their sale rooms without sufficient sale instructions and reserve the right to make a minimum storage charge at 25p per lot per day for such goods (unless the loss or damage is caused by the negligence of their employees).
11. Right to Sell. Vendors will be charged for goods left on the premises if the vendor has been requested to remove them and if the goods are not removed within twenty-one days of such request Glendining & Co. reserve the right to sell the goods to defray costs and storage charges.
12. Insurance.
 - (a) Unless otherwise instructed in writing all goods on Glendining & Co.'s premises and in their custody will be held insured against the risks of fire, theft following forcible entry and water damage (but not against accidental breakage or damage) for which insurance Glendining & Co. will charge a premium of £1 per £100 (minimum £1). The value of the goods so covered shall be the gross amount realised, or in the case of unsold lots the best bid, or in the case of goods withdrawn prior to a sale that which the specialised staff of Glendining & Co. shall in their absolute discretion estimate to be the auction value of such goods.

- (b) Glendining & Co. shall not be responsible for damage to or the loss, theft or destruction of any goods not so insured upon the owner's written instructions.
 - (c) Glendining & Co. shall not be responsible for accidental breakage, loss or damage howsoever caused unless directly caused by negligence of their employees.
 - (d) In respect of any article delivered to Glendining & Co. if the vendor has in force a policy or policies of insurance in which the article is specifically mentioned as being insured, whether or not for an agreed sum or value, the vendor shall notify his insurers of and shall himself note Glendining & Co.'s interest as bailees in such policy or policies.
13. Reserves.
- (a) All goods are put up for sale WITHOUT RESERVE at the Auctioneer's discretion unless written instructions as to reserves are received by one hour prior to the commencement of the sale.
 - (b) In the event of any reserve price not being reached at auction Glendining & Co. are empowered to sell after the auction, by private treaty, at not less than the reserve price, as long as the goods remain on Glendining & Co.'s premises. In the event of such a sale by private treaty the Conditions of Sale applicable to a buyer governing the auction will apply.
14. Indemnity. The vendor shall duly indemnify Glendining & Co. against any claims in connection with any goods sold by Glendining & Co. on the vendor's behalf.
15. Value Added Tax. A vendor who sends for sale by auction any chattel(s) which is an asset of his business must disclose to the Auctioneer whether or not he is a registered person for Value Added Tax purposes and, if so, his registered number and whether or not he intends to operate the special scheme covering works of art, etc. This information must be supplied to the Auctioneer on or prior to delivery of the goods.
16. The vendor authorises the Auctioneer to deduct commission and expenses at the stated rates from the hammer price and acknowledges the Auctioneer's right to retain any premium payable by the purchaser.
17. Rights to Photographs and Illustrations. The vendor gives Glendining & Co. full and absolute right to photograph and illustrate any lot placed in its hands for sale and to use such photographs and illustrations and any photographs provided by the vendor at any time at its absolute discretion (whether or not in connection with the auction).
20. Every bidder shall be deemed to act as principal unless there is in force a written acknowledgement by Glendining & Co. that he acts as agent on behalf of a named principal.
21. Removal of Goods.
- (a) No purchase shall be claimed or removed until it has been paid for and the sale has been concluded. All purchases shall be paid for and removed at the buyer's risk and expense by the end of the second working day after the sale, failing which the Auctioneer shall not be responsible if the same are lost, stolen, damaged or destroyed, and all lots not so removed shall remain at the risk of the buyer and subject to a minimum warehousing charge of 25p per lot per day. If they are not paid for and removed within seven days of the sale the Auctioneer may re-sell them by auction or privately without notice to the buyer. Any liability which there may be on the part of the Auctioneer in respect of any loss shall be restricted to a maximum of the price paid by the buyer of the lot.
 - (b) In the event of any failure of the buyers to comply with any of the above conditions the damages recoverable by the seller or the Auctioneers from the defaulter shall include any loss arising on any re-sale of the lot, together with the charges and expenses in respect of both sales, and together with interest at 2% above Midland Bank PLC Base Rate upon the price of any lot which has not been paid for within 48 hours of the sale, and any money deposited in part payment shall be held by the Auctioneers on account of any liability of the defaulter to them or to the seller. The Auctioneers are unable to accept payment from successful bidders other than in cash or by the bidder's own cheque. Cheques drawn by third parties, whether in the Auctioneers' favour or requiring endorsement, cannot be accepted.
22. Value Added Tax. The Buyer will be liable to pay V.A.T. at the standard rate on the hammer price on those Lots indicated with a dagger (†) after the Lot number. This V.A.T. is refundable on proof of export by Overseas Buyers within 28 days of Sale.
23. Purchase Price. The purchaser shall pay the hammer price together with a premium of 10% of the hammer price. The premium is NOT negotiable and attracts V.A.T. at the standard rate and is payable by ALL purchasers. The vendor authorises the Auctioneer to deduct commission and expenses at the stated rates from the hammer price and acknowledges the Auctioneer's right to retain the premium payable by the purchaser.

BUYERS CONDITIONS

18. Inspection. Each buyer by making a bid for a lot acknowledges that he has satisfied himself fully before bidding by inspection or otherwise as to all the Sale Conditions the physical condition of and description of the lot including but not restricted to whether the lot is damaged or has been repaired or restored.
19. Property and Risk. Legal title will not pass to the buyer until the lot(s) has been paid for in full and the Auctioneers shall be entitled to a lien on any lot sold until the purchase price (as defined in 22 below) is paid in full but each lot is at the sole risk of the buyer from the fall of the hammer. Each buyer shall forthwith give his full names and permanent address and if called upon to do so by the Auctioneer shall forthwith pay to Glendining & Co. such proportion of the purchase price as the Auctioneer may require. If the buyer fails to do so, the lot may at the Auctioneer's sole discretion be put up again and re-sold.

 Robert William Pittaway, R.A.F.V.R. 622 Squadron.
 1893539 Sergeant Robert William PITTAWAY, Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve, 16.622 Squadron. (Air gunner; sorties 11; flying hours 41.) Sergeant Pittaway has participated in operational sorties over enemy territory and has been in combat on two occasions. One night in June, when returning from Gelsenkirchen, he warned his pilot an enemy fighter was about to attack his aircraft and immediately opened accurate fire. The enemy aircraft was hit and crashed to the ground in flames. On another occasion this airman's aircraft was attacked by a Junkers 88. His fire drove off the aircraft and enabled his captain to continue and achieve his objective. Sergeant Pittaway has proved himself to be an extremely efficient gunner and his courage and devotion to duty when under fire have been outstanding and an inspiration to all.
 Together with 33 pages copy pages from squadron record book describing his Ops. Plus extract from Bomber Squadrons of the R.A.F. (622 Squadron). He had four flights in LL85 the Lancaster that "topped the century" (113 Op. sorties). Also included "Air Gunners Wings".

 EDWARD BROWN ADDIS entered the Navy, 13 Aug. 1803, as Fst.-cl. Vol., on board the EXCELLENT 74, Capt. Frank Sotheron, employed in the defence of the Bay of Naples; removed as Midshipman, in July, 1806, to the ZEALOUS 74, Capt. John Okes Hardy; and on next joining the ATHENIENNE 64, Capt. Robt. Raynsford, was wrecked, on the Esquerques Rocks, near Sicily, 8 Oct. following, on which occasion the Commander and 396 of the crew were lost. He then became attached to the SATURN 74, Captain, Lord Amelius Beauclerk, off Cadiz, and on his return to England in the ROYAL GEORGE, flag-ship of Sir John Duckworth, joined, in Oct. 1807, the BARRACOUTA, Capt. Geo. Harris, under whom (with the exception of a brief attachment, during the summer of 1810, to the RUSSELL 74, flag-ship of Rear-Admiral Wm. O'Brien Drury) he continued principally to serve, both in the BARRACOUTA and in the SIR FRANCIS DRAKE frigate, the last two years as Lieutenant (commission dated 9 Aug. 1811), until June, 1813. In Aug. 1810, Mr. Addis ably assisted, as Acting Lieutenant, at the destruction by the boats of the SIR FRANCIS DRAKE and of the BELLIQUEUX 64, under the immediate orders of Lieut. Joseph Prior, of a French privateer and two gun-vessels, beneath a continued fire from the batteries of Bantam, in Java;* and on 23 May, 1811, he again served in the boats, and contributed, in a most undaunted gallant manner, to the capture, off Rembang, of a fiercely defended flotilla of Dutch gun-vessels and armed proas.† Being next appointed, 11 Aug. 1813, to the DASHER sloop, Captain, Wm. Henderson, he served on the West India station, whither he accompanied the outward-bound trade, until placed on half-pay in Nov. 1814; after which, from Sept. 1824 until 1830, he appears to have been employed on the Coast Blockade as Supernumerary-Lieutenant of the RAMILLIES and HYPERION, Capts. Wm. M'Culloch and Wm. Jas. Mingaye. Since the latter date he has again been on half-pay.
 Lieut. Addis received in 1842, held the appointment of Crown Commissioner at Port Philip. He married, 9 March, 1826, Elizabeth, daughter of the late Lieut. McArthur, of Haslar.

13th March 1811.

Reverse engraved: "Captain Henry Whitby. Cerebus. XIII Mar. MDCCCXI. A French Squadron. Of Superior. Force Defeated". In gold and glazed frame and complete with gold buckle on the ribbon. Rare. Extremely fine. (£8,000–10,000) 1

∴ Extracts from "The Naval History of Great Britain"—William James:

"On the 25th of April, 1806, a British squadron, composed of the 50-gun ship Leander, Captain Henry Whitby, 18-pounder 40-gun frigate Cambrian, Captain John Nairne, and 18-gun ship-sloop Driver, Captain Slingsby Simpson, cruised off the port of New York, to search American vessels coming from foreign ports for enemy's property and for goods contraband of war, also to gain information respecting the routes of two or three French squadrons then known to be at sea. At about 2 p.m. on that day Captain Whitby went on board the Cambrian to dine with Captain Nairne, leaving the Leander in charge of her first-lieutenant, Mr. John Smith Cowan. At 3 p.m., when standing in upon the larboard tack, Sandy-Hook lighthouse bearing west-north-west, distant about five leagues, the squadron discovered several sail in the south-west by south, apparently about four leagues from the Jersey shore, steering towards the Hook.

Soon after 4 p.m. the Cambrian, at that time the leading ship of the three, and distant about three miles and a half from the land, fired at some of the nearest vessels, and, heaving to, sent her boats on board three or four of them. The Leander then passed astern of the former, and stood on, to endeavour to bring down several brigs, one or two schooners, and a ship that had brought to at the distance of two or three miles from the squadron, with their heads in shore and their foresails set. After firing two guns at two brigs, that lay close together, and were more advanced than their companions, the Leander, being within about three miles of the shore, tacked, and continued occasionally firing single guns ahead and astern of the brigs, until the latter wore and stood towards her. The brigs were then boarded by her boats, and suffered to proceed; as were all the other vessels boarded by the squadron on that afternoon, except the ship, which, being detected in an illicit trade from Havana, was detained and sent to Halifax, where the greater portion of her cargo was legally condemned. Among the ships not boarded was one from the West Indies, laden with a full cargo of contraband and commanded by the nephew of the celebrated Paul Jones.

No sooner had the two first-mentioned American brigs altered their course to approach the Leander, than a small sloop discovered herself at a short distance in shore of them. Little did the Leander's captain imagine what a powerful instrument of persecution against him this apparently insignificant object was to be made: insignificant, indeed, for who, beyond some half a dozen citizens of New York, had ever heard of the "American coasting-sloop Richard, Jesse Pierce, master?" It appears (for there is no positive evidence of the fact) that a shot from the Leander killed John Pierce, the brother of Jesse, as the former was standing at the helm. A splinter was said to have struck him under the jaw, and to have caused instant death. The man never moved after he fell, but his brother acknowledges that he neither saw John Pierce fall, nor the splinter strike him. The sloop was presently in New York, and alongside of one of the wharfs. An election was at this time going on in the city. The body of the man was carried on shore, and the scenes that followed were a disgrace to the citizens.

In mockery of all justice, a grand jury collected among the citizens found a bill for wilful murder against Captain Whitby. The impulse, once given, extended all over the United States. Even the President was induced to issue a proclamation, declaring the captain of the Leander to be a murderer, and calling upon the citizens to seize him, Captain Whitby, that he might be proceeded against according to law. By the same proclamation, the Leander, and the two ships in her company at the time the unfortunate occurrence happened, as well as all other vessels commanded by the same three captains, were prohibited from entering the harbours and waters of the United States. At a subsequent period Captain Whitby, at the instance of the British admiralty, was tried by a court-martial for the murder of John Pierce, and there not being a particle of evidence to prove the charge, was acquitted."

"On the 25th of July, 1809, Captain Charles Dudley Pater, commanding a British squadron, composed of his own ship, the Princess Caroline 74, the Minotaur, of the same force, Captain John Barrett, 18-pounder 32-gun frigate Cerberus, Captain Henry Whitby, and 18-gun ship-sloop Prometheus, Captain Thomas Forrest, permitted the latter to lead the boats of the squadron, 17 in number, to the attack of four Russian gun-boats and an armed brig, lying at Fredericksham, near Apso roads, in the gulf of Finland. After dark the boats pushed off from the squadron, and at 10 h. 30 m. p.m. commenced the attack. After a most desperate and sanguinary conflict, three of the gun-boats, mounting two long 18-pounders each, and having on board between them 137 men, besides an armed transport-brig, with 23 men, were captured and brought off.

Costly, indeed, were the prizes. The British loss amounted to one lieutenant, one second-lieutenant of marines, one midshipman, and six seamen and marines killed; Captain Forrest, one lieutenant, three midshipmen, and 46 seamen and marines wounded. The Russians, on their side acknowledged a loss of 28 killed and 59 wounded; making a total of 47 men killed and 110 wounded, in obtaining possession of three gun-boats. One of these gun-boats, No. 62, was so obstinately defended, that every man of her crew, 44 in number, was either killed or wounded before she surrendered: the killed alone amounted to 24. The result of this enterprise was a defeat to the Russians certainly, but under circumstances that reflected the brightest honour upon the character of their navy.

In the month of June, 1810, Captain William Hoste, of the 18-pounder 32-gun frigate Amphion, having under his orders the 38-gun frigate Active, Captain James Alexander Gordon, and 18-pounder 32-gun frigate Cerberus, Captain Henry Whitby, cruised in the gulf of Triest. On the 28th, in the morning, the boats of the Amphion chased a convoy of several vessels, reported to be laden with naval stores for the arsenal at Venice, into the harbour of Groa. The capture of the convoy, although, on account of the shoals, to be effected only by boats, being an object of considerable importance, Captain Hoste resolved to make the attempt without delay. In the evening the Amphion telegraphed the Active and Cerberus, to send their boats to her by 12 at night; but owing to her distance in the offing, the Active was not able to comply with the signal in time. Accordingly the boats of the Amphion and Cerberus, commanded by Lieutenant William Slaughter, second (first absent) of the Amphion, and assisted by Lieutenants Donat Henchy O'Brien of the same frigate, and James Dickinson of the Cerberus, Lieutenants of marines Thomas Moore of the Amphion, pushed off, and before daylight on the morning of the 29th landed, without the firing of a musket, a little to the right of the town.

Advancing immediately to the attack of the town, above which the vessels lay moored, the British were met, about the dawn of day, by a body of troops and peasantry; who opened a very destructive fire, and obliged the former to retire to the shelter of some hillocks. Conceiving that their opponents were retreating to their boats, the French quitted their advantageous position, and charged with the bayonet. They were received with the bravery and steadiness so characteristic of British seamen and marines, and a lieutenant, a sergeant, and 38 privates of the 81st regiment of French infantry were made prisoners. Lieutenant Slaughter and his party now entered the town, and took possession of the vessels, 25 in number. At about 11 a.m. a detachment of the 5th regiment of French infantry, consisting of a lieutenant and 22 men, entered Groa from Maran, a village in the interior.

They were instantly attacked by the force that was nearest to them, consisting of a division of seamen and marines under Lieutenants Slaughter, Moore, and James Mears of the Active, whose boats had landed just as the men of the Amphion and Cerberus had achieved their exploit. The same intrepidity, which had insured success on that occasion, produced it on this; and the 22 French troops, with their officer, laid down their arms and surrendered. Every exertion was now made to get the convoy out of the river; but, it being almost low water that object could not be effected before 7 p.m.; and then not without great labour and fatigue, the men having to shift the cargoes of the large vessels into smaller ones, in order to float the former over the bar. By 8 p.m., however, the whole detachment and the prizes reached the squadron, which had anchored about four miles from the town.

The loss on the part of the British, in performing this very gallant service, amounted to four marines killed, one lieutenant of marines, three seamen, and four marines wounded; and the loss sustained by the French amounted to 10 killed, eight by bayonet wounds, a proof of the nature of the conflict, and eight wounded. Of the captured vessels, 11 were burnt in the river, because too large to pass the bar in the state of the tide, five were brought out and sent to Lissa with cargoes; as were also 14 of 15 small trading craft, laden with the cargoes of the burnt vessels.

Together with photocopies of pages 232 to 243 from James's Naval History giving a detailed account of the action off Lissa, which includes the undermentioned extract.

"The Cerberus, although without a stick shot away except her mizentopsail-yard, was a good deal battered in the hull, as her loss will testify. Out of a complement the same originally as the Amphion's, but since reduced by absentees to about 160 men and boys, the Cerberus had 13 killed and 41 wounded".

∴ 2nd Dragoons (Scots Greys).

The next day was the memorable Eighteenth of June. The Greys had their full share of the honours of that celebrated victory. Their brigade was posted behind the left centre of the allied line, and came into action about eleven o'clock, when D'Erlon's infantry was retiring in disorder from their pertinacious but ineffectual attacks upon Picton's division. The Earl of Uxbridge, who was in command of the cavalry, observed their confusion; and immediately wheeling the Greys, Royals, and Enniskillens into line, hurled the three thousand sabres—an avalanche of steel—upon the enemy. The Royals appeared to take the lead, while the Greys preserved a beautiful line at full speed; and the fiery Enniskilleners were equally prompt to get into action. Before this storm of horse and rider everything went down. Napoleon's cuirassiers and lancers were alike overwhelmed; and the pitiless sabres mowed down the staggering infantry by hundreds. The eagles of the 45th and 105th regiments, and upwards of 2,000 prisoners, were the rewards of this brilliant movement. The Eagle of the 45th was captured by Sergeant Ewart of the Greys.*

Napoleon himself was moved to admiration by the bravery of this splendid regiment. "What fine troops!" he exclaimed; "what a pity it is that I shall cut them all to pieces!" He did not succeed in doing so; but their impetuosity carrying them into the very rear of the French position, they were constrained to retreat, and suffered severe loss—their commander, Sir William Ponsonby, being among the slain.

The Greys afterwards supported an attack made by the 92nd regiment, which, reduced to scarcely 200 men, broke into a column of infantry nearly 2,000 strong. Bayonet and sabre together captured or destroyed every man. In that last grand charge, which destroyed for ever the hopes of Napoleon, and swept the veterans of France away like chaff before the wind, the Greys rode forward, triumphant and exultant; and as the glittering mass rolled over the blood-weltered field, and crashed through the scattered ranks, Napoleon's genius forsook him, and the sun of his glory set. "A présent c'est fini!" he cried. Yes; "à présent!", and "toujours!"

In the Battle of Waterloo, the Scots Greys suffered severely. They lost their colonel (Hamilton), 1 major, 1 captain, 1 lieutenant, 3 cornets, and 78 non-commissioned

6th Inniskilling Dragoons

A wild cheer—a ringing British cheer— and with levelled steel Picton's heroes rush forward to the charge. Their leader, as he advances, is shot dead through the left temple, the ball crashing into the brain. Woe to the French! The loss of their well-beloved general embitters the fury of the British. They charge the devoted column, and hurl it down the blood-wet slope in terrible disarray. Pack's brigade in like manner, has repulsed the other three columns, and as they stagger and reel, all broken and disordered, in among the mass glitter the sabres of Ponsonby's brigade of heavy calvary—the famous Union brigade—the gallant English Royals, the “terrible” Scots Greys, the fiery Irish Ennikillens; and whole battalions are mowed down by their avenging swords, while the remainder fall back on the hill utterly and irretrievably broken up. Two thousand prisoners are taken, and two eagles; but the horsemen are not yet satisfied. They ride up to Ney's artillerymen, sabre them at their guns, sever the traces, and cut the horses' throats, rendering those guns useless to the French during the remainder of the fight. Their daring charge, however, has carried them too far, and their success disordered them. While attempting to reform, they are enveloped in a cloud of Polish lancers, and compelled to retreat with severe loss. But now Vandeleur leads up his light cavalry to their support, and charging the enemy, once more drives them back with pitiable slaughter.

The Ennikilleners afterwards distinguished themselves in the general attack upon the French lines at close of day, when the victory was won which made Wellington the foremost man of his age, and England the foremost of European nations. They lost at Waterloo 86 men and 164 horses killed; their colonel, lieutenant-colonel, 2 captains, 1 lieutenant, 1 ensign, and 101 sergeants and rank and file (and 27 horses) wounded.

Dear Berridge,

Warmest congratulations on the award of the D.S.O. I am very pleased indeed to see that your magnificent work as Navigator/Radio with Wing Commander Topham over such a long period has been recognised in this way.

In the two and a half years since you were awarded a bar to your D.F.C. you have had a record of night defensive and offensive work which it would be hard to beat.

Best wishes,

Yours sincerely,

James Robb

M.C. London Gazette 6.9.1918 (page 10525). "For distinguished and gallant services rendered on the occasion of the destruction or damage by enemy action of Hospital ships, Transport and Stores ships".

Mentioned in Despatches London Gazette 6.9.1918 (page 10526).

The undermentioned account is an extract from a dealer's catalogue:

"The recipient embarked with his regiment for Egypt aboard the transport "Wayfarer" in April 1915 and was aboard her 11 days later when she was torpedoed S.W. of the Scillies. The resultant explosion left a hole which was 40ft. in length and 27ft. in width. In light of the danger of her sinking, the Captain gave the order to abandon ship. By this time the S.S. Framfield was on the scene, and the Wayfarer's lifeboats safely reached her sides, and the survivors were taken on board. Meanwhile the Capt. and the Chief Officer of the Wayfarer returned to further inspect the damage and they concluded she would remain afloat for some time. A signal requesting some volunteers to return to the Wayfarer was sent, and amongst the military personnel who offered their services was the recipient. After rather a slow and hazardous voyage, the Wayfarer safely reached Ireland, and the volunteers from the Warwickshire Yeo. were commended by their C. in C. Ireland, for displaying the highest form of courage and discipline under circumstances of extreme danger and difficulty".

The recipient eventually reached Egypt and later participated in the landings at Sulva Bay, where his regiment suffered substantial casualties and returned somewhat depleted to the Western Front.

Together with a large contemporary leather bound gold-leaf photograph album, which contains many interesting military scenes, and a section of pictures taken minutes after the Wayfarer was torpedoed. Pictures are from 1914 until the last days of his life, including some very interesting pictures of the landings at Sulva Bay and Lala Bay, Gallipoli.

With various newspaper cuttings regarding the torpedoed Wayfarer. Also military and naval reports relating to the same incident from Union Club Alexandria, Egypt/Admiral's Office Queenstown.

Includes a hand written letter from MFA REWA Hospital ship dated 23.8.1915, by the recipient, giving a detailed account of a Gallipoli action in which he was wounded. Through their gallant actions in saving the Wayfarer, a total of 760 horses were saved".

During the battle of Amiens, in August 1918, the 116th Battalion was to carry out an attack on a front of 1000 yards, starting from the village of Hourges, with a final destination 5000 yards in front. At 2130 hours on the night of August 7, the Battalion was moved off to occupy the assembly position. Each man was issued 2 water bottles, 48 hours of ration, and 70 extra rounds of ammunition.

The jumping off position was reached at 0215 on the 8th of August, giving the men of the 116th ample time to locate their positions. At 0430 hours sharp, one of the greatest barrages in the history of the war, by artillery and machine-guns opened up. The 116th Battalion now went forward, and by 0730 hours had captured 16 artillery pieces, 40 machine-guns and 450 prisoners. The Battalion suffered heavy casualties, going into battle some 900 strong; and when the roll was called 48 hours later, less than 240 officers and men answered their names.

∴ With the following photocopied extracts: “There shall be wings”.

“The bombing record for the summer and autumn of 1918 contains such statements as Captain Harold M. Ireland ‘during five months . . . led forty-three long distance raids’; and again, Captain Frederick Laughlin of Thorold, Ontario, ‘has taken part in forty bomb raids . . . far over the enemy lines’. During that summer, Second Lieutenant John B. Russell of Ottawa made more than eighty sorties as an observer, many of them far deeper into enemy country than an flyer would have dared venture two years earlier. Such town-names as Saarbrücken, Karlsruhe and others began to appear in the bombing news. With greatly improved aircraft, armaments and heavier bombs, the young flyers were creeping up on Berlin. If the war had lasted into 1919 it appears almost certain that Mulock and his crews would have reached the goal and would have made at least partial payment of London’s long overdue account.

But though the bombing flights were stretched farther and farther in the closing days of the war, there was no cessation of the close contact raids. Some specialists, like Major Percy Sherren from Crapaud, Prince Edward Island, one of the first train-busters, destroyed ammunition trains within a few miles of the lines in the days of static trench warfare. On another occasion he carried his bombs for more than two hours’ flying time beyond the front line to destroy an important railway junction at Hirson, from which he and all his flight returned safely. Captain Eric Waterlow of Regina, who was killed in action on July 16, 1918, was one of the pilots who preferred to fly alone. In addition to other duties he “carried out over forty solo long distance reconnaissances far over the enemy lines. In one flight he took no less than 108 photographs”. During the period of the Germans’ last desperate push towards Paris in 1918, a flight of bridge-busters led by Lieutenant Leo Charron of Ottawa, in an attack on enemy lines of communication between Soissons and Rheims, destroyed every bridge over the Marne accessible to the Germans, by bombing from altitudes of 100 feet or less. The entire flight was so seriously attacked by ground fire that all the aircraft were damaged and returned across the British lines only with the greatest difficulty. Charron later became one of the “originals” of the R.C.A.F. and flew from stations at Winnipeg, St. Hubert, Roberval and Camp Borden. He died at Camp Borden on December 1, 1932.”

D.F.C. Recommendation

Flight Lieutenant Daly is a Navigator of outstanding merit who has completed 43 1/3 sorties against the enemy since the award of the Distinguished Flying Medal, in April, 1942. Some of these sorties have been as Navigator in the isolated force of Mosquitoes regularly attacking the most heavily defended targets in Germany. On many occasions Flight Lieutenant Daly's aircraft has been engaged by an intense concentration of searchlights and flak, but he has always remained unperturbed, and provided the maximum assistance to his pilot at all times.

Latterly he has been a member of the Marking Force employed by No. 5 Group for attacks on enemy targets. In this capacity he has distinguished himself by his accurate, and efficient, navigation both by day and by night. On 29th June, 1944, Flight Lieutenant Daly's aircraft was the only one of three markers to return from a sortie against Flying Bomb Sites at Beaunoir. This experience in no way deterred this Officer's enthusiasm for operational flying.

He has taken a responsible part in the highly successful attacks against such strongly defended targets as the Dortmund Ems Canal, Darmstadt, Stuttgart, Munchen-Gladbach and the Gestapo Headquarters in Oslo. He operated in the successful attacks against enemy transport system both before and after "D" Day.

The great majority of these sorties have been made at a low level, often in the face of intense enemy opposition.

Flight Lieutenant Daly has now completed his second tour with the impressive total of 86 1/3 operations to his credit.

I have no hesitation in recommending him for the Non-Immediate award of the Distinguished Flying Cross.

D.F.M. Recommendation

758074 Sergeant John Francis DALY, Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve, No. 37 Squadron. This airman has carried out 36 operational sorties against targets in Holland, Germany, Greece and other objectives in the Middle East. His skill as navigator/bomb aimer is of a high order and on several occasions he has been largely responsible for the safe return of his aircraft in bad weather conditions. His courage and devotion to duty have set a fine example.

At 11.45 on 8th November 1939, when pilot of a reconnaissance aircraft on duty over the North Sea. Pilot Officer Henderson encountered two large enemy flying boats. He engaged the leading boat with the utmost resolution; burst were seen to enter the engines and after part of the flying boat's hull, the enemy rear gunner was incapacitated and eventually the flying boat went down partially out of control. Pilot Officer Henderson then attacked the second enemy aircraft with equal determination and silenced its fire before exhausting all his ammunition".

Date: 4/9/39. Time: 1445. Orders received for 5 aircraft to carry out a low level bombing attack against a German Cruiser lying in the roads a short distance north of WILHELMSHAVEN. The detail of crews is given at Appendix 4.

Aircraft took off from WATTISHAM at 15.55 hours, each aircraft carrying 2, 500lbs G.P. Bombs, fitted with 11 seconds delay fuzes. 4 of the aircraft returned from the raid between 1935 and 2000 hours, without damage to aircraft or crews. The weather during the latter half of the outward flight was very poor, much low cloud and rain being encountered.

Excellent Navigation by Pilot Officer HENDERSON, temporarily attached from No. 206 (G.R.) Squadron brought the formation right into the bay a few miles north of the target. The flight of 5 aircraft then broke up into 2 sub-flights of 2 aircraft each and one single aircraft.

Short of the estimated position of the target, the weather cleared up quite considerably and the cruiser with a tender drawn up astern was easily picked up and recognised.

Acting Flight Lieutenant K. C. DORAN scored 2 direct hits with his bombs from very low altitude.

Pilot Officer G. O. LINGS dropped one bomb which fell a few yards to one side and those by 564212 Sgt. HANNE J. H. fell rather wide.

One of the remaining aircraft failed to locate the target.

Flying Officer H. L. FADEN with his crew of three are missing.

Quite a deal of A.A. fired was observed immediately after the attack, which undoubtedly had been quite a surprise to the enemy.

- On 26 February 1945, Gunner Muirhead was signaller to the Artillery Commanding Officer's Representative with the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders of Canada. During the night, the battalion attacked and captured a strong enemy defence position on the high ground SOUTH of CALCAR, the assaulting infantry and supporting troops being carried forward on to their first objectives in armoured vehicles.
- On reaching its area, the Battalion Headquarter group came under a heavy concentration of gun and small arms fire. A German 88 mm gun, firing at point blank range, knocked out the Battalion Commander's tank with a direct hit, and it became necessary for all troops to take cover until the opposition could be overcome.
- During the vicious and concentrated enemy attack, all communications to forward companies and to Brigade Headquarters were cut. Realizing the vital and immediate importance of re-establishing communications for the continued direction and control of the action, Gunner Muirhead quickly built two wireless ground stations, restoring signal communications with the infantry companies and the supporting artillery. This task was undertaken and completed under the most difficult and dangerous conditions of continuous enemy fire, and Gunner Muirhead was several time forced to cross open ground swept by machine guns and small arms fire.
- Showing absolute determination and complete disregard for his own safety, this soldier remained at his post, refusing to take cover or to rest. Throughout the remainder of the night and the day following, he continued to maintain the all important communications, passing situation reports and fire orders.
- During the entire engagement, Gunner Muirhead displayed gallantry and courage of the highest order. His coolness and bravery under fire and his devotion to duty enabled the Battalion Commander to direct and control the further phases of the attack. As a further result of his outstanding conduct, the Brigade Commander was kept informed of the immediate progress of the battle and was materially assisted in his direction of a successful brigade operation.

- Throughout the entire campaign in France, Belgium, Holland and Germany the sterling calibre of work performed by this NCO has constantly merited commendation.

Due to the nature of the equipment of the unit many problems and situations arose which required the utmost in ingenuity, coolness and fortitude in order to ensure the maintenance of communications.

This personal example was an inspiration to his men and he was always able to imbue them with a fire and determination to complete their tasks whatever the dangers from enemy shells, mortars or small arms fire.

It is considered that were it not for his leadership qualities, technical knowledge and his outstanding ability to get things done, despite difficulties, many lives would have been lost as a result of a lack of all-important communications.

His actions in the field belied his normally quiet and retiring nature and several citations could be written describing particular incidents but it is sufficient to be said that in the opinion of all who know his work that he is most deserving of an award".

He was challenged in German and fired on by 3 maxim MGs and 1 MG 42. In the melee which ensued, he killed three of the enemy, including the officer and led his patrol back safely to his own lines. He was able to accurately pin-point each of the enemy defences. Sgt. COBURN was interrogated by the CO of the North Shore Regiment (NB) the next day and was able to supply detailed information vital to his plans for the assault on the town which was carried out without casualties after the enemy posn. had been neutralized by Arty. fire.

Not only did the information obtained by this NCO directly contribute to the success of the attack, but his vigorous interception of the enemy patrol probably saved a surprise attack on our own lightly held position.

∴ A wild cheer—a ringing British cheer—and with levelled steel Picton's heroes rush forward to the charge. Their leader, as he advances, is shot dead through the left temple, the ball crashing into the brain. Woe to the French! The loss of their well-beloved general embitters the fury of the British. They charge the devoted column, and hurl it down the blood-wet slope in terrible disarray. Pack's brigade, in like manner, has repulsed the other three columns, and as they stagger and reel, all broken and disordered, in among the mass glitter the sabres of Ponsonby's brigade of heavy cavalry—the famous Union brigade—the gallant English Royals, the “terrible” Scots Greys, the fiery Irish Enniskillens; and whole battalions are mowed down by their avenging swords, while the remainder fall back on the hill utterly and irretrievably broken up. Two thousand prisoners are taken, and two eagles; but the horsemen are not yet satisfied. They ride up to Ney's artillerymen, sabre them at their guns, sever the traces, and cut the horses' throats, rendering those guns entirely useless to the French during the remainder of the fight. Their daring charge, however, has carried them too far, and their success disordered them. While attempting to reform, they are enveloped in a cloud of Polish lancers, and compelled to retreat with severe loss. But now Vandeleur leads up his light calvary to their support, and charging the enemy, once more drives them back with pitiable slaughter.

 “They rode like victors and lords,
 Thro’ a forest of lances and swords,
 In the heart of the Russian hordes,
 They rode or they stood at bay . . .”

Thus Tennyson wrote of the Charge of the heavy Cavalry Brigade at Balaklava.

On the early morning of October 25 the Russians, who had no very great opinion of the Turkish troops, made a determined attack on Balaklava. The valley leading down to the sea is cut in two by a low range of hills, and down these two valleys they advanced. The Turks, after one or two rounds, incontinently abandoned the redoubts, and fled in haste to the refuge of the town. Sir Colin moved up the 93rd Highlanders, and awaited the advance of the Russian cavalry division. He had a firm faith in the new weapon with which his troops were armed, and a still firmer belief in his Highlanders. On swept the Russians, and as they came within range, a volley from the 93rd at 600 yards emptied many saddles, but did not stop the advance; then, as the dense Russian Columns neared the “thin red streak, tipped with steel”, a second volley, at 150 yards, rang out, and as the smoke cleared away the Russians were seen moving to the rear. Now was the opportunity for our cavalry, and the Heavies were not slow in taking advantage of it. Scarlett moved forward his brigade in two lines, the Greys and Inniskillings leading, with the 5th and 4th Dragoon Guards on the right and left flanks respectively, and the Royal Dragoons in support, the total strength being some 750 men. As Russell graphically wrote, while the Russians fell back, Scarlett charged into them. “By sheer steel and courage the Inniskillings and Scots were winning their desperate way right through the enemy’s squadrons, and already grey horse and red coat had disappeared right at the rear of the mass, when the Royals, 4th Dragoon Guards, and 5th Dragoon Guards rushed at the remnants of the first line of the enemy, and went through it like pasteboard. In less than five minutes after they met our Dragoons the Russians were flying at full speed from a foe not half their strength”.

Glendining's Subscription Service 1988

Subscriptions to our catalogues run on an annual basis from January each year. On average we issue some 20 coin catalogues, of which a minimum of four will be of Ancient coins, and a further four are of Orders, Decorations and Medals, for which separate subscription rates are offered. Most catalogues contain some plates of illustrations, and in the course of each year several of the catalogues are of important or named collections.

We aim to post the catalogues to arrive some three weeks prior to the date of the sale. Lists of "Prices Realised" are issued after each sale and these are enclosed in a following catalogue, at no additional cost.

Subscriptions received after July 1st are for half the annual cost.

For the convenience of customers the subscriptions are priced for differing postal zones, and all overseas catalogues are sent by air mail.

Zone A = U.K. and Ireland; Zone B = Europe; Zone C = Rest of the World

Type of catalogue	Zone A	Zone B	Zone C
Ancient, British and Foreign Coins	£20	£30	£40 ($65)
Ancient Coins only (minimum 4 sales)	£10	£15	£20 ($30)
War Medals (minimum 4 sales)	£10	£15	£20 ($30)
